Symbols, the News Magazines, and Martin Luther King

Richard Lentz

In this innovative book Richard Lentz considers Martin Luther King, Jr., as a cultural symbol, from the Montgomery bus boycott to the Poor People's Campaign. In particular, Lentz examines the ways the three major news weeklies—Newsweek, Time, and U.S. News & World Report—presented King to their readers. Lentz investigates how these magazines, which he believes were thrust into what he refers to as a "crisis of symbols," responded to King's abandonment of a strong reformist ideal for a more radical posture during the mid–1960s.
